Reg Poole

Reg Poole was born in Rushworth, Victoria and grew up on a dairy farm. He formed his first dance band in the 1960s and recorded his first release in 1972. He has been involved in the entertainment industry for over four decades now and has won three Golden Guitar awards along the way. He received his first in 1974 for his song Australian Country Music Hall of Fame.

Reg is highly regarded in Country Music circles and has come to be known as The Gentle Giant of Country Music. In 2006 Reg became the 33rd inductee into Australia's highest country music honour – The Roll of Renown. This is presented annually to an artist who has made a lasting and significant contribution to Australian Country Music. To add to an already outstanding year he was also awarded a Medal of the Order of Australia.

The Gentle Giant tours constantly and performs all over Australia. Reg is one of the leading Bush Balladeers in the Australia, and to see him in concert is to be taken on a journey of discovery about the people and places of Australia and beyond.
